

Tips to make your Vacuuming routine less taxing

Create a vacuuming schedule and stick to it. Doing it once or twice a week is usually enough.

If you have a multi-story home, start cleaning from the farthest back room on the top floor, and gradually make your way to the bottom floor. Vacuum the front of your home last.

For best efficiency, change the canister/vacuum bag when its half or two-thirds full.

Pay special attention to sides of stairs, narrow spaces and corners since grime usually collects there. Use additional attachments if required.

Swear by the top-down rule. Vacuum curtains and drapes first, then furniture, and finally, the floors.

To vacuum floors and carpets effectively, make sure you choose the right setting on the device